Town Meeting Finally Ends With $2 Saving

THE RISEN CHRIST is depicted in this stained glass window at St. Robert Bellarmine church in West Andover. Accompanying is the inscription are the words, "If Christ be not truly risen, then vain our preaching, vain your faith." Easter Sunday will be marked by special music and services in many Andover churches.

EASTER

Special services will be held commemorating the resurrection of Christ on Easter Sunday in many Andover churches.

In many cases Holy Week services begin today with special observances of Maundy Thursday, or Holy Thursday, marking the Last Supper. Protestant and Catholic churches have scheduled services observing the advent of the Crucifixion on Good Friday.

There will be services on Friday, in particular the three hour service at South Church. From noon to 3 p.m., clergymen from Andover churches will speak on the Seven Last Words of Christ dying on the cross.

Holy Saturday will also be observed with particular services. Special music for Easter Sunday

Police Picket Town Meeting On Negotiations

Negotiations between the Andover Police Department and the town manager broke down in public Monday night, as 20 off-duty patrolmen picketed in front of Memorial Auditorium at the start of the town meeting.

The police and town manager have been negotiating since October.

With the off-duty men not working at town meeting, Chief David L. Nicoll and Lieutenants Raymond Collins and Hector Pattullo were on duty at the town meeting. They are not covered under the contract.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin stated Tuesday that he felt there was an "honest misunderstanding" between the bargaining parties and felt it would not help the case by trying it in public through picket lines, the press or radio.

Austin presented a letter to voters attending town meeting explaining his views in the matter and said the town stands ready to meet on meaningful negotiations.

He said he would not and could not accept binding arbitration.

The manager noted that the contract has been rewritten several times by the negotiator for police. A generally full proposal was due by March 17. It has been rewritten.

School Proposals Defeated

Andover's record long town meeting finally came to an end Monday night, or really Tuesday morning at 12:15 a.m., with action taken resulting in a possible $2 increase in the tax rate.

It had been originally predicted that the rate would go up $4 over the 1970 levy of $46 per thousand of valuation.

Finance Committee Chairman Albert J. Greenberg said, following the completion of the regular and special sessions, that action in cutting the budget and elimination of some of the articles in the warrant, should allow the assessors to set a maximum of $2 in increased taxes. He added that possibly the increase could be lesser.

The main items Monday night dealt with schools.

Both the addition to the Doherty school and a request for funds for an addition to the high school were defeated.

Also going down to defeat Monday

Federal Grant Received

The town has received a federal grant from HUD totalling $1,500,000 for construction of the water treatment plant.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin was notified Wednesday morning by Congressman F. Bradford Morse, that Andover's application for the federal funds had been approved.

The plant to be constructed at the Haggett's pond pumping station, will have a total cost of $5,000,000. The town's share now will be $3,500,000.

Town Manager Austin noted the town's delight in receiving word that the grant was forthcoming and expressed the town's gratitude to Congressman Morse, Senators Edward M. Kennedy and Edward W. Brooks, for their assistance in obtaining the federal funds.

The plant will treat water from the Merrimack river and place it in Haggett's pond for distribution.

The project is scheduled to get underway this spring and be ready for use by the summer of 1973.

Town meeting in 1970 approved $4,000,000 for the project and an additional $1,000,000 this year for the project. The approval was given with the provision that federal funds be obtained.

Embark On Trip To Spain

Three Andover young ladies who are students at the School Year Abroad program in Barcelona, Spain, set forth this week on a spring vacation trip of Spain.

Margaret Couch, Ellen Hoitsma and Janis Tomlinson and their classmates in the co-educational Barcelona program embarked on a tour designed to show them as much of Spain, and its cultural history as possible, before their School Year Abroad ends in early June.

They will travel north to Huesca, and San Sebastian on the colorful north coast of Spain, visiting the caves of Alta Mira to see the prehistoric paintings. Next comes Santillana de Mar, a beautifully preserved mediaeval sea town, then south to Bruges the old capitol of Castille, before looping back through Soria to Barcelona, to continue their studies.

The program is sponsored jointly by Phillips Academy, Phillips Exeter Academy and St. Paul's School, and is open to public or private school students who wish to spend their 11th grade year studying abroad without losing academic credit at their home schools.

The students have spent the year living with Spanish families. They study math and English under instructors from the sponsoring schools, but Spanish language and culture, literature and European history under local Spanish instructors.

This year the American faculty includes Louis Hoitsma of Andover, a regular instructor at Phillips Academy. Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Couch, Woodland Road, and Janis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Tomlinson, a Phillips Academy instructor who has been directing the Barcelona School Year Abroad program.

Canoe Races

Scheduled

On May 1, Saturday, the Andover Village Improvement Society will sponsor the first of the annual canoe races on the Shawsheen River.

The purpose of the event is to stir interest in the river, conservation and A.V.I.S. properties along the river, and hopefully each year to kick off a great year of outdoor activities.

Al French, chairman of the race committee, has said that there will be races for a variety of classes of boats and entries of varying abilities. Suitable prizes will be awarded to the winners. Anyone interested in supporting this exciting event should call Mr. French. Additional details will be publicized soon.

Chaplain To Address Meeting

Chaplain Lieutenant Colonel Merlin R. Carothers, U.S. Army, internationally known speaker and powerful witness to the work of Christ in his life, will speak at the Christian Formation Center, Andover, on Thursday evening, April 15, at 8 p.m. Prayer groups from the Merrimack Valley area are sponsoring this event and extend an invitation to attend to people of all faiths as well as people of no religious affiliation.

Chaplain Carothers, author of the book "From Prison to Praise", is presently assigned to the Candidate Brigade at Fort Benning, Ga.

The Chaplain was a guest speaker at the World Convention of the Full Gospel Business Mens Fellowship in 1969. He has spoken at many chapter meetings throughout the United States including the special Governor's Luncheon that was held for Governor Ronald Reagan this year.

His military career began in 1943 as an enlisted man with the 82nd Airborne Division serving as a demolition expert during World War II. Following his discharge from the Army in 1946 Chaplain Carothers studied for the ministry at Asbury Seminary, Kentucky. After serving for three years as pastor of a Methodist Church in Claypool, Indiana, he reenlisted as a chaplain in the service of his country. Since returning to active duty he has served tours in Germany, Korea, The Dominican Republic, Panama and Vietnam.

Passover

Week To Be Observed

In celebration of the week-long holiday of Passover, Temple
Emanuel of the Merrimack Valley, 101 West Forest St., Lowell, will begin on the first night, Friday, April 9 at 6:15 with services, followed by a Community Seder -- the festival meal.

The chairman of the Community Sedar is Robert F. Miller, who should be contacted at 454-2089 for reservations. Both the service and the Sedar are open to non-members, as well as members of the Temple, and has been, for 21 consecutive years, the high point in the annual program. On Thursday of Passover week, April 15, the Adult Education group will hold a special meeting at which the topic will be "Exotic Haggadahs."

These books, retelling the Passover story, have adapted much from the surrounding areas in which Jews have lived. Haggadahs, or Passover Service books, from Rome, China, India and Modern Israel, as well as many medieval versions, will be studied and discussed in a fascinating exploration of Judaism past and present.

Friday evening, April 16, marks the last day of Passover. Rabbi S. Daniel Breslauer's sermon,
"He Delivered Us From Their Hands" will consider the historical and modern condition of the Jewish people and seek new interpretations of Jewish history.

Passover has been for more than two thousand years considered the festival of redemption. Originally a spring festival, it has been transformed into a historic memory of deliverance from past oppressors and hopeful promise of freedom in the future. In accordance with this spirit, Rabbi Breslauer extends to all members of our American community -- Jew and Non-Jew alike -- the fervent prayer for peace, equality, and liberty for all mankind, and he offers the following prayer, "May next Passover see us all in a world of liberation and mutual trust."

Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert

What does the defeat of the Doherty School Addition and the $117,000 cut in the school budget mean in terms of the next year's public school educational program?

It means redistricting to even up the pupil load in the schools next year, now that no relief is in sight, Superintendent Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert told the TOWNSMAN Wednesday in an aftermath interview on the town meeting's educational decisions.

It will mean accepting more pupils per classroom in most schools for an indefinite period, something the administration wanted to avoid.

It means cutting back on present bus services probably this spring, to even approach the $35,000 transportation cutback of the William Coderre school budget amendment. It was passage of this amendment which cut $117,000 from the 1971 school budget.

And of course it means not purchasing the comprehensive computer services proposed in the school budget.

Budget adjustment will be on the agenda at Tuesday evening's school committee meeting at Stowe School, 7:30 p.m.

The redistricting will be accomplished by next fall, Seifert said, making every effort to see that no one school is so packed that the educational program of the children deteriorates.

If double sessions are necessary, Seifert said, it might be for only certain grade levels or for an entire K-6 at one building. He referred to State Board of Education member John Sullivan's statement that the state permits double sessioning only in cases where the community has some relief planned; they are more lenient, Seifert said, about double-sessioning single classes than entire schools.

Cutting back on some bus service will be necessary, the administration explains, since the 1971 school transportation budget is a steady expense whose outlay began in early January, and runs until December, with the major portion of expense falling in the longer January-June segment of the year.

Seifert says that the $117,000 cut also means that new programs will have to replace old programs for the immediate future, instead of being additions to them. For example, Seifert said, where the schools were using a combination of textbook and flexible programs, they will go right into buying only the flexible programs for economy.

"We will also begin to rely on differentiated staffing, where its feasible, to be able to handle the larger numbers of children with the best educational results and the most economy. This means a team of people - teachers, student teachers or teacher's aides and clerks, working with a large group. It means more adults per number of children, with paraprofessionals working under the proven professional teachers."

The superintendent's reaction to the town meeting decisions on the proposed school construction was: "I am satisfied that we gave the town our best judgment. Even in tight money times, as Bill Doherty has told me, the town has a right to know what my best educational judgment is - and the town has a right to say no to it. We've got to do the best job we can with what we have and now we know what we have to work with. But I must say this, and it's not about the decision itself. There's something strange about people applauding the defeat of a school building for their town."

"I am encouraged that even when times are hard, a majority of the voters at town meeting voted for the Doherty Addition. And I was pleased at the commitment of the supporters of the Doherty Addition. The strength of their commitment to public education impressed me."

How about the 11 or 12 month (Year-round) school suggested by School Committeeman Dr. Daniel Frishman and endorsed on town meeting floor by School committeeman Dr. Frank Griggs?

That's one logical direction, Seifert agrees, but there are certain costs, certain requirements, for the year round school which everyone should face and be aware of before a decision is made. He lists the following costs, or requirements for the year-round school:

1. Time: at least three years to accomplish it, so it is not a quick answer.

2. Air conditioning in the schools. You have to be able to operate without worrying about what the temperature is going to be for the students attending in mid-summer. Only Bancroft has air-conditioning so far, which is why it is used for the elementary summer school.

3. Completely flexible educational materials, in order to have kids on their own instructional tracks, in school and on vacation at various times.

4. The faculty geared to the year-round approach, with kids coming into their situation at any time, and out again, with staggered vacations, and individualized instruction. This implies a change in philosophy for many of the more traditionally oriented teachers in the system.

5. Recreational facilities available in the town at all seasons of the year, not just in the summer, for those children on vacation.

6. At least 30% added to the annual budget for salary costs.

Cone To Be Roundtable Panelist

Thomas Cone, instructor in biology at Phillips Academy and noted ecologist, will be the guest on Andover Roundtable broadcast over WPA, 91.7 FM Thursday and Sunday nights.

Cone is a member of the Andover Chamber of Commerce Ecology committee and the moving force behind the Andover Ecology Action committee.

He has done extensive studies of the Shawsheen river and organized clean-up efforts for the stream.

The program is broadcast from 9 to 10 p.m. Thursday and again on Sunday from 7 to 8 p.m.

Regular panelists are Robert E. Finneran, managing editor of the TOWNSMAN, Mrs. Janet Sheerer, president of the League of Women Voters and Daniel Fitts,
Andover reporter for the Lawrence
Eagle-Tribune.

Bowdoin Honors

Area residents have been named to the Dean's list at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine for the first semester.

So honored are:

Mark L. Haley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Haley, 11 Chandler
Circle and Frederick N. Nowell,
III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick
N. Nowell, Jr., 23 Cheever Circle of Andover.

Francis M. McEvoy, III, son of
Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. McEvoy,
II, 64 Russell St. and Stephen C.
Packard, son of Mrs. Charles J.
Packard, 290 Johnson St., and the late Mr. Packard of North Andover.

PRESENTED AWARD - Edward Covalesk, right, foreman of mails in Andover, is shown receiving a special certificate from Regional Director William F. Bolger of the U. S. Postal Service. Covalesk got his 'diploma' upon completion of a course in "Effective Postal Supervision" conducted recently by the New England Regional Office at Andover.

Spring Exhibits At Museum

Welcome spring by visiting Boston's Museum of Science.

A handful of fluffy chicks, a brooding Bantam hen, and ostrich eggs set in silver chalices are among the exhibits mounted in observation of the season.

It is better to bring children to a museum to see chicks than to buy them as presents for the children, according to Peter Stowe, who is in charge of the Museum's Live Animal Center.

"The chickens may suffer from improper handling, or become sick because most city people do not know how to care for them," Stowe warns. "In addition when the chicken reaches full growth, as it must, families have difficulty in disposing of it."

The Museum's annual chicken-hatching exhibit includes an incubator in which fertilized eggs are placed. The chicks should be hatched on several successive days. This year as an experiment, the Museum has introduced a Bantam hen. It is not yet certain how she will react to the public.

The exhibit also contains a microscope showing the chicken embryo at 72 hours of growth and embryos embedded in plastic which reveal stages of a chicken's development.

The chalices for the ostrich eggs were designed by English silversmiths for Russian royalty in the 1860s. The 7 1/2-inch eggs contrast with a chicken's egg, placed nearby.

Two other Museum exhibits that relate to spring are the model of an Easter Lily and "A Water Drop World -- Transparent Grass and Invisible Cows," a series of enlarged models of minuscule life normally visible only through a microscope.

FRESH HOPE comes to dilapidated housing from the scrub brushes and paint brushes of PA students on a work weekend in Gloucester.

Assistance To Gloucester

(A TOWNSMAN News Feature)

There is a link between a group of Phillips Academy dormitories and a Gloucester community corporation responsible for programs in the depressed areas of that fishing community.

Fresh evidence of that link is last weekend's refurbishing job -- the complete scrubbing, fresh paint throughout and wallpapering, by 15 PA boys and three men -- of a city-owned slum-area apartment for a woman with eight kids and another on the way.

The paint-up, fix-up people were students and housemasters from PA's West Quadrangle South "cluster" of dormitories. Coordinators of the transformation were members of Gloucester's Action, Inc.

The link between the two groups was forged during Phillips Academy's "February Week," when all classes were called off and students spent their time pursuing some interest of their own choosing, with faculty supervision.

The interest of 15 students and three housemasters from West Quad South was to take sleeping bags to a Gloucester tenement for February Week. Here they lent their energy to Action, Inc., an incorporated community group actively running various federal and local assistance programs for the poor.

The students spread out in the community to explain the government's Surplus Food Program to eligible people. Some brought a masculine touch and image to the children of four Headstart centers. They did a clean-up, paint-up job at the Fisherman's Institute, a rundown haven for elderly retired fishermen.

Both the community leaders in Gloucester and the PA volunteers and their mentors saw rewarding returns. The surroundings and the outlook of the elderly hopelessly poor were brightened. The students were involved in work that mattered, in a community that needed help, and were working together as a community themselves -- one of the aims of the cluster system. They also benefited from the chance to discuss the problems with articulate people they respected who worked along with them -- the leaders of Gloucester's Action, Inc.

Denton Crews of Action, Inc. told the West Quad South cluster chairman, K. Kelly Wise, that he was astounded by the work accomplished by the boys. "We underestimated their energies and enthusiasm. They restored our faith in volunteer help." Both sides wanted to continue the connection beyond February week, and the housemasters wanted to give more boys in the cluster an opportunity to help.

Weekends were the solution, they decided. Last weekend English teacher George Edmonds, assisted by Wise and history teacher Donald Gardiner, led another expedition of 15 students out to Gloucester to accomplish a specific task set by Action, Inc. -- a face-lifting job on an ancient city-owned property. "It was a classic situation," said Edmonds. "A pregnant woman with eight children and a husband recently out of jail who's seldom around, living in a dilapidated property."

Saturday and Sunday the boys scrubbed, painted and applied wallpaper, with the mother and children temporarily moved out. Sunday, the boys organized the children to clean up a steeply sloping vacant lot across the street where the neighborhood plays. The boys did their own cooking Saturday night, and wandered around Gloucester to learn more about the town, before turning into their sleeping bags in a community service office. Sunday was more work, but time out for clamming before they came home to the Phillips campus.

Wise reports that Action, Inc.

has a list of other needs that are crying to be helped, and the West Quad South Cluster expects to send three more groups on Gloucester work weekends. Some of the needs include the cleaning and painting of a community co-op store, also the train depot, and a treeplanting project near Wingershaek Beach to prevent soil erosion. They will seek to involve the cooperation of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, largely made up of school drop-outs.

Looks like a busy spring of community service for the West Quad South community at Phillips Academy.

Bowling Awards Are Presented

The Andover YMCA is presently conducting 13 bowling leagues and classes. Leagues at the Andover Bowling Center include a Thursday morning Women's league, Tuesday afternoon leagues for boys and girls in grades 5 and 6 and a Thursday afternoon league for Junior High school boys and girls. Interested individuals may still register at the YMCA for these programs and, in addition, a few openings still exist in the 10 bowling classes conducted at the YMCA alleys for boys and girls in grades 1 - 4.

During the recently concluded winter term numerous awards were presented for bowling achievement. In the Women's league Virginia Farrar was first in high game, high triple and high average, with Helen Cummings second and Millicent Jones third in all three categories. Winning team members included Judy Johnson, Genevieve Nantowski, and Helen Cummings; second place team included Pauline Janusz, Eleanor Adler and Millicent Jones.

In the Junior High school league the boys' team of William Gouger and David Reilly placed first and the second place team included James Carter, Jeff Lewis and Lewis Stocker. David Reilly, William Gouger and David DeLucia placed in that order in both the average and high triple categories. William Gouger was first in the high game with James Carter second and David DeLucia third. In the girls' division the first place team included Kathleen Conroy, Lori Gross, Ginny Hadam and Carolyn O'Hara. All three individual firsts were won by Lori Gross and all three seconds by Carolyn O'Hara. In the league for grades 5 and 6 the winning team included David Norris, Jr., Terrance Schwing and David Wilson with second place honors going to Tom Croke, Joseph Fitzgerald and John McEwen. David Wilson and Steve Mangano placed first and second, respectively in all three categories; Russell Fedell won two third places and Judy McEwen the other.

by Marjorie C. Kidd

SELLER CAN HELP

How can the seller help himself?

There are many things a seller, or his realtor, can do to facilitate a sale. But one of the most important is to arrange for attractive mortgage terms. A seller is in competition with every other seller of similar property. So the one selling first may be the one with the best mortgage terms.

If the existing mortgage on a home is less than half of the asking price, it takes a stiff down payment. Or a second mortgage. This might eliminate many potential buyers.

A wise course might be to obtain an agreement from a mortgage-lending institution. This would give a new mortgage to a qualified purchaser at the highest possible figure.

The buyer could have his house, with a low payment and you could have your sale.

Whether a buyer or seller, you will have complete confidence in JAMES T. TREFREY REALTOR. ## Staff

We are proud of the fact that we have an international staff at Memorial Hall Library, and very happy indeed to have with us a native of Larnaca, Cyprus. Her name is Mrs. Chryso Moissides. Since coming to work at M.H.L. one year ago, her concern for the people she serves and the staff she works with have endeared her to all. Chryso takes the extra time and the extra effort to make sure each person she helps at the library finds exactly what he or she came in to find. The smile and the words are genuine.

In Cyprus, Mrs. Moissides attended the Greek Secondary School and The American Academy. She met and married Dr. George L. Moissides and the couple worked together at The American Academy. Later, on furlough in this country, Chryso received a B.A. degree from Goddard College in Vermont. They have one daughter, Lydia, a graduate student at the University of Illinois. The Moissides are now on an extended furlough in the United States. Dr. Moissides is principal psychologist at the John T. Berry Rehabilitation Center, North Reading. Their home is in Lowell and they have lived previously in Auburn and Tyngsboro.

At home, Mrs. Moissides is active in many women's groups, mostly church and ethnic organizations. She and her husband are in demand as speakers. Dr. Moissides is an ordained minister as well as a professional psychologist. When they have time for it, they like to travel, but most of their leisure time today is filled with entertaining guests from the home country and friends from this country.

Films

The Andover Haven Film Program will be held on April 15 at 2 p.m. in the Baptist Church. Refreshments will be served after the program; everyone is invited. Mrs. Schaake will show the following films: 1. Highlights of the Dartmouth Football Season, 1969. 2. Breath of Spring - Canadian wildlife awakening to the sights and sounds of spring. 3. Life along the Waterways - Plant and animal life near a New England brook. Great Books

The next meeting of the Great Books Discussion Group will be held at 7:30 on April 13 at the Memorial Hall Library. The book under discussion is The Shape of Content by B. Shahn. The following meeting will be the last one of the 1970-71 Great Books Group and it will be held on April 27, also at the library at 7:30. If you are thinking about joining the group next year you might enjoy coming to these last two meetings of the year. Part of each meeting will be used to decide on books for reading and discussion next year.

Ecology

The final date for turning in your photographs to be entered in the ecology contest is Saturday, the 10th of April. It's not too late to get out and snap a picture, making sure it has a theme of ecology, and that it is 8x10 in its finished form. Both adults and high school students may compete.

Elementary school children will be making posters on the subject of ecology this month. The posters will be hung in the library from April 20-30.

2000 copies of the Basic Booklist on Ecology, prepared by the Andover Ecology Action Committee on Education and Publicity, have been distributed in the Greater Lawrence area. All titles will be available at the Earth Day Fair to be held on April 17 at the Olde Andover parking lot.

Final Dog Clinic On Saturday

The final Rabies Vaccination Clinic for dogs will be held on Saturday morning, April 10, between 8:30 a.m. and 12 noon, at the East Junior High school, shop area.

Dr. Richard Lindsay will be in charge. Since Dr. Lindsay uses a two-year vaccine any dog having had the rabies inoculation in 1970 does not need to have it this year.

A newly enacted law states that under Chapter 140, Section 145F of the General Laws, "Whoever is the owner or keeper of a dog six months of age or older shall cause such a dog to be vaccinated against rabies by a licensed veterinarian using a vaccine approved by the department of public health."

On Committee

Miss Ruth Rothseid, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert S. Rothseid, 12 Forbes Lane, has been named to the student development committee of Finch College, New York. The committee will work with the alumnae association and the development office in fund raising activities.

Service

On Maundy Thursday Evening at 8 o'clock at South Church in Andover, United Church of Christ, there will be the traditional service of the Last Supper of our Lord with His disciples. New members will be received at that time.

The Office of Tenebrae, which follows the Lord's Supper, is an adaptation of an ancient rite established early in the fourth century. The distinguishing feature is the symbolic extinguishing of lighted candles, signifying the approach of our Lord's death and the flight of the disciples. Tenebrae means "shadows." As such they gather until the moment of total darkness recalling the days our Lord was in the tomb. The relighting of the central candle is prophecy of the Easter so soon to dawn. The word Maundy is derived from the Latin word for "commandment," and refers to the "new" commandment given by Christ on this night: "A New commandment I give unto you, that you love one another."

About 67 percent of all fresh fruits and vegetables now delivered to the Nation's 41 largest metropolitan areas arrives by truck.

Good Friday Service At South Church

The Good Friday service, which is sponsored by the churches of Andover, will be held at South Church in Andover, United Church of Christ, this year from twelve noon until 3 o'clock.

The three hour service will deal with the "Seven Last Words of Christ" from the Cross, and the ministers of Andover will give meditations upon them.

The Liturgist for the service will be the host pastor, Rev. J. Everett Dodge. Special music will also be featured.

The following is the schedule of the service and the respective times when people are free to come and go:

12: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do" Rev. J. Allyn Bradford.

12:25: "Verily, I say unto you, today you shall be with me in paradise" Rev. Kenneth J. Kennedy, O.S.A.

12:50: "Woman, behold thy son! Behold thy mother!" Rev. Norman Dubie.

1:15: "My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Rev. Charles A. Fowlie.

1:40: "I thirst" Rev. J. Edison Pike.
2:05: "It is finished" Rev. Donald Myrom.
2:30: "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit" Rev. Earl B. Robinson.
The community is encouraged to participate in this annual Pilgrimage to the Cross.

IN REPORT - Automated production of electronic sub-assemblies at Raytheon Company's Andover plant is pictured in the company's 1970 annual report. Modern techniques such as this provide production savings and increased reliability in electronic systems being supplied to the United States Government.

Report Features Andover Plant

Raytheon Company's new plant in West Andover and the air defense system production programs conducted there are highlighted in the company's 1970 annual report now being mailed to more than 30,000 stockholders across the nation.

Near record operating earnings are reported in the Raytheon 1970 annual report. Operating earnings in 1970 were $34,343,000, equal after provision for preferred dividends to $2.32 a common share compared with the record $2.34 in 1969.

In their letter to stockholders, President Thomas L. Phillips and Board Chairman Charles F. Adams noted that commercial sales now account for 50 percent of the company's business; up from 17 percent in 1964 when the company began its commercial diversification program.

According to Joseph Glasser, Andover plant manager, "the Andover facility received during the year substantial production contracts for the Improved Hawk air-defense missile system. The Improved Hawk," he said, "is scheduled to replace basic Hawk batteries now deployed with the armed services of the United States and to provide a defense capability through the 1970s."

Commenting on the new facility, Mr. Glasser said, "We feel that this modern manufacturing plant provides us capabilities to perform much more effectively on present programs than ever before, and it will enable us to meet critical production requirements of future systems to be built in Andover."

Three of Raytheon's commercial subsidiaries achieved record sales and earnings during the year: Amana Refrigeration, The Badger Company, and United Engineers and Constructors. Government business continued strong and broadly based despite the slowdown in funding and resultant stretchout of some programs. Raytheon Europe had the best year in its history.

Two new commercial business areas were established during the year: medical electronics and data systems. The business base of D. C. Heath and Company was broadened with the introduction of text books in new subject areas and the acquisition of Caedmon Records, Inc. in New York and Gregg International Publishers, Ltd. in London.

In natural resources, the Badger Company completed seven projects in 1970 and received contracts for 10 major new projects in six nations. United Engineers and Constructors expanded its electric utilities design and construction business to new highs. Raytheon set up an Environmental Systems Center to offer pollution identification, control, and abatement services to state and municipal governments and to utilities and industries.

Raytheon's broadly based government business covers a wide and diverse range of defense, communications, air traffic-control, and vehicular traffic management programs.

Raytheon is prime contractor for the Hawk and Improved Hawk and Sam-D ground-to-air missile defense systems and the Sparrow and Advanced Sparrow air-to-air missile systems; and is a major producer of the infrared-guided Sidewinder air-to-air missile.

The prototype Missile Site Radar designed and built by Raytheon for the Safeguard ballistic missile defense system was successfully tested at the Kwajalein Missile Range in the Pacific where it directed intercepts of ICBM nosecones launched from 4200 miles away.

In space, Raytheon's guidance and navigation computers aboard the command and lunar modules performed flawlessly during the 10-day Apollo 14 lunar landing mission earlier this year.

Work in shipboard defense systems includes development on the Aegis system as a major subcontractor to RCA. As prime contractor, Raytheon is responsible for the engineering development of the NATO Sea Sparrow ship-to-air missile defense system.

Pictured in the Raytheon stockholder report is a multipurpose airborne phased array antenna and radar now undergoing flight tests aboard a U.S. Air Force plane.

A two-page color photograph demonstrates the clarity and crispness of a new display for air traffic controllers developed by Raytheon for the Federal Aviation Administration. First units of the new equipment were delivered to the FAA early this year.

During 1970, design work was completed on an advanced and highly innovative AN/TPN-19 aircraft landing system for the U. S. Air Force. In the civic technology business area, tests were completed on two versions of the Raytheon-developed ramp merging system for motorists, a safe-passing aid system for drivers on winding and hilly roads, and a freeway surveillance system.

Public 'Hanging' At Church Students

There'll be a public 'hanging' at the Unitarian - Universalist Church next Wednesday night, April 14.

And by the time it's over, the large hall and adjacent rooms will have been converted into an art gallery, for the beginning of the church's sixth annual art show.

All interested residents of the area are invited to attend the 'hanging' -- it starts at 6:30 p.m. -- providing they're willing to work along with the church crew. This is the first time, at least in the experience of the show's organizers, that the public has had an opportunity to take part in this aspect of an art show.

Although this is the sixth year in which a gallery has been created within the local church, this year's Festival of the Arts takes on a broadened concept with the addition of the performing arts -- music, dance, drama and films.

The art show itself will be open, free, starting April 17, through May 1. Special activities during that time period -- most with a modest admission charge -- will include:

Concert Pianist Tibor Szasz, April 21 at 8 p.m.; W. C. Field Film Festival, April 23, also at 8 p.m.;

Jean-Paul Sartre's drama "No Exit", by the Quannapowitt Players of Reading, April 24 at 8:30 p.m.; Modern Dance Concert, featuring the Marblehead Dance Workshop, Sunday evening, April 25 at 8 p.m.;

Friday and Saturday evenings (April 30 and May 1) at 8 o'clock, a religious folk Musical "Tell It Like It Is", performed by people of all ages from the Unitarian - Universalist Church; Sunday, May 2, at 2:30 p.m., special children's program by the Baroque Brass Quartet of Worcester, in cooperation with the music department of the local public schools.

As an added dimension, the regular Church worship service on Sunday, April 25, will be a folk Mass, to which the public is cordially invited.

Another different feature of the Festival this year will be art demonstrations during daytime hours. Well-known local artists have agreed to take part.

Planning the Festival of the Arts are committee members: Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Schenk, Mrs. David Ehrman, Rev. Richard Woodman, Mrs. Barbara Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Max Russell, David Coupe, Mr. and Mrs. David E. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Mederic Caron, Mr. and Mrs. John Hinds.

Tickets are being distributed by Mrs. Donald Mulvey and Mrs. Leonard Gardner, Jr.

Music To Our Ears

By Edward P. Grigoli

Leon Bismarck "Bix" Beiderbecke born in Davenport, Iowa achieved fame for his cornet and piano music.

It is said that he taught himself to play the cornet by listening and accompanying tunes played by the original Dixieland Jazz Band on records.

At the age of eighteen he played in the school band of the Lake Forest Academy in Chicago. He also occupied his time by taking jobs in and around that city.

"Bix" spent many hours at night listening to such groups as the "New Orleans Rhythm Kings" while at the same time he was involved playing with the "Wolverines Band".

The Wolverines played on lakeboats and at various university dates, at one of which he met a young law student named Hoagy Carmichael. The band booked their first recording series in Richmond, Indiana, 1924.

Some of his finest recorded work was under the name of "Bix Beiderbecke's Gang" with Bill Rank (trombone), Don Murray (clarinet), Adrian Rollini (bass saxophone), Frank Signorelli (piano), Howdy Quicksell (banjo) and Chauncy Morehouse (drums).

Beiderbecke was noted for his faultless ease of execution, his genius for perfect phrasing, and the clean bell-like quality of his tone.

He also performed with Paul Whiteman, Jimmy and Tommy Dorsey, Frank Teschmacher, Bud Freeman, and the Casa Loma Orchestra.

He later devoted some time to put on paper a number of piano improvisations which he had been engrossed with for many years, representing the side of his nature which was devoted to classical music.

ON EXHIBIT. Among the works on display at the Copley Society Gallery in Boston is this work of Maria Boes of 10 Cyr Circle, who is currently conducting a one-woman show there.

Art Show In Boston

Maria Boes' one-woman show at the Copley Society's gallery on 158 Newbury Street opened last Sunday. Her canvases, strongly influenced by European folk art, South American motifs, and medieval lore, are painted in warm, vibrant colors that provide a counterpoint to the dreamlike, mythical, and very decorative quality of her scenes. Fanciful creatures, people, beasts, trees, and flowers, are stylized but explosively alive. Knights slay dragons, courtiers dance, saints wear halos and saintly smiles, fools cavort, and Adam is torn between Lilith and Eve - and every one of these images exudes an atmosphere of mysterious excitement and joyfulness.

Maria's world is one of romantic surrealism - timeless and phantastic, bathed in masses of exuberant color. Her creatures beguile the viewer, tease him to join them in their secret delight. No special effort is required. All he needs is the capacity to enjoy what he sees.

The show closes April 15. Gallery hours are daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Apples, Weather Agreeable

During this chameleon season, when the weather changes rapidly from spring to winter and back again, native apples are great served hot as well as cold. One apple, according to the Mass. Dept. of Agriculture, fills all requirements.

That all-purpose apple is the Cortland, and it will be plentiful through May. The best crop of Cortlands from native orchards in many years went into controlled atmosphere storage last fall, and they are available now, with hard, firm, white flesh that does everything well. Massachusetts growers are producing more and more of them. It is the one apple that is best for cooking, for baking, and for salads. Baked, it holds together well; sliced into salads, it stays white and flavorful.

The Easter Lily, the traditional house plant during Holy Week and beyond, is available everywhere right now. Long-lasting in the home, it can be made to bloom again in the garden. The Mass. Dept. of Agriculture offers the following tips for prolonging its life:

1. Water regularly - don't allow to dry out;
2. Feed every two weeks with a regular house plant fertilizer;
3. As new flowers open, carefully remove the yellow stamens; this will make the individual bloom last longer;
4. Keep in a cool room at night if possible.

New this week from Massachusetts farms are the sweet spring-dug parsnips. These winter in the ground, are dug immediately after the spring thaw. Freezing seals in the sugar content, makes them sweeter and less woody than the winter variety. Foul, then fry them in butter or margarine for an excellent side dish... and never make a beef stew without them!

It is Maple Syrup Time in the Bay State. Now is the time to order your syrup or visit one of the many maple camps throughout the state. For a list of maple camps, write to the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture, 100 Cambridge St., Boston, 02202 and one will be mailed to you at no charge.

On Dean's List

Bruce N. Howe of 8 Old South Lane, has been named to the Dean's list for the 1970 fall semester, at Drew University, Madison, N.J.

A senior in the College of Liberal Arts, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy B. Howe. He is a 1967 graduate of Manter Hall school, Cambridge.

TRUSTEESHIP

The English colonists brought with them the concept (originally from the Magna Carta, 1215 A.D.) that the king, in his sovereign capacity, owned the wildlife as trustee for the people. State trusteeship of wildlife for the people is in the constitutions of the original 13 colonies and remains the pattern of management in the U.S. today, the Massachusetts Audubon Society tells us.

A Time Of Renewal

Easter is the time of renewal, rebirth, resurrection.

It's a time when terrible discouragement is turned into victory.

We need to be reminded every year that winter can turn into spring and that death can turn into life and that defeat can turn into victory. It's that faith which keeps people going.

These days there is a tremendous amount of discouragement everywhere. Our lakes and rivers are dying... can they be made alive again? Our air is filthy... can it be cleaned? Our land is being wasted... can it be renewed? Our cities are dying... can they be reborn? Our society is in upheaval... can we find peace?

We think all this is new... and of course, the specific problems are new. But the message of Easter, the hope that problems can indeed be solved and that the dream of a better world can indeed be fulfilled, has kept people going for 2,000 years.

We need to have faith in order to have hope, and we need to have hope in order to have love. And with enough love, we can save the natural world and the world of people. They go together. The world is our home, as surely as Easter is the time of renewal.

While the U.S. trucking industry generally is made up of small companies, there are more than 1,650 companies with annual gross operating revenues of $1 million or more.

Two Win Science Awards

Miss Jill Lerer

Two girls, one an Andover resident, the other a student in Andover, have just won awards at the Merrimack Valley regional science fair at Lowell Technical Institute.

Patricia Osborne, a sophomore at Presentation of Mary Academy in Methuen, won a bronze medal and a $25 U. S. Bond for her research and design of a manned lunar observatory for astronomy research. Miss Osborne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osborne, 11 Central St.

Jill Lerer of Lowell, an eleventh grade student at Abbot Academy, won a silver medal and a $50 U. S. Bond for her project, which was a test of the relative effectiveness of the six topselling mouthwashes in the nation. The project was begun more than three months ago, and its research was Jill's February Week Project at Abbot. She tested the mouthwashes on two types of bacteria, streptococcus salivaria, commonly found in the mouth, and a very hardy bacteria, escheria coli, found in the intestines of man and some animals. While some mouthwashes were effective in killing one or both types of bacteria on contact, she found that only one mouthwash was effective in killing both types of bacteria, on contact, and killing the regrowth of the bacteria after some time had elapsed.

Patricia Osborne's research began early in January with the study of three aspects of a lunar observatory - how to get it to the moon in the first place, how to support its personnel, once there, and what their research activities would entail.

When she had conclusions about these aspects, Patricia said, she drew plans for a four-level observatory and constructed a 10" x 12" model of wood.

Her science fair entry won a certificate from the U. S. Air Force and one from NASA, as well as the bronze award.

What are her conclusions about

Topsfield Fair To Be Subject For Historians

There is so much of historical interest in Essex County that it is not surprising to learn that the Topsfield Fair is the oldest continuing agricultural fair in the United States. It is held in September under the sponsorship of Essex Agricultural Society.

Warren Rockwell, public relations director of the fair, will speak at the Andover Historical Society, Thursday, April 15, at 8 p.m. His lecture will conclude a series of programs that has emphasized the arts, furniture and trades of early Essex County.

President George W. Glennie will preside at the annual business meeting when reports will be presented and officers and directors elected for the ensuing year. Mrs. A. Glenn Hanson and Mrs. Edward F. Stokham will be in charge of the social hour.

Corcoran Is Honored

William F. Corcoran of Andover, a representative of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., was honored in Miami, Fla., last week as a top company sales leader at a three-day general agency business meeting.

Some 200 John Hancock representatives from 51 general agencies in the company's New England, New York and Atlantic divisions qualified to attend the meeting on the basis of their outstanding sales and performance records during the past year.

Corcoran works out of the John A. Serbin Agency, at Lakeside Office Park, Wakefield.

West School PTO Holds Supper

On Wednesday, April 7 at 6:30 p.m. the West Elementary school held its annual "Pot Luck" supper and "Open Classroom Night."

Parents of children in grades kindergarten through six, came and brought casseroles, salads or dessert as their "price of admission."

Following the supper, which was served in the new cafeteria, parents adjourned to the various classrooms where their children's work was on display.

The supper was under the direction of PTO president, Jerome Hochschwender and his wife.

Parents are also reminded that they are invited to drop in any Tuesday afternoon at West school between 3 - 4:30 p.m. to talk over any questions or problems with Mrs. Iona Alexander of the school's guidance department, Miss Janet Russell of the upper elementary staff and Mrs. Margaret Calderwood of the primary grade staff. No appointment is necessary to visit on this day.

An audio film-strip will be shown at the pot luck supper. Miss Isabelle Dobbie, principal, will provide the commentary for the film. It was compiled by the following teachers: Mrs. Leslie Whitley, Miss Margaret Calderwood, Miss Betsy Smith, Miss Diane Mill, Miss Dale Bishop, Miss Cathryn Cebula, Mrs. Norma McCabe and Mrs. Mary Cassidy.

Vision Screening April 13, 14

On Tuesday and Wednesday, April 13 and 14, from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. each day, the Andona Society will conduct its annual free pre-school vision screening at the Christ Church on Central Street in Andover.

The vision screening program, conducted in conjunction with the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the Andover Board of Health, has been helpful in identifying many pre-school age children with vision problems which require treatment.

The results of pre-school screening programs show that 1 in 20 children, ages 3 to 5, have a vision problem, and about one-fifth of these have amblyopia. This is a condition of reduced or dim vision in an eye which appears to be normal. It is sometimes called "lazy eye", and occurs when the two eyes do not see the same object with the same degree of clarity. The poorer eye is not stimulated to develop or maintain clearness of vision.

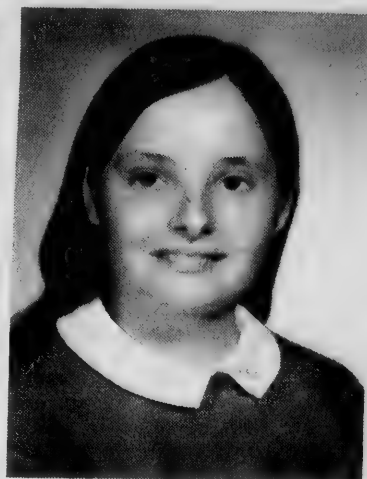

Amblyopia is not usually caused by a disease process, and can generally be corrected if discovered early enough. The condition may develop as the eye develops and, therefore, it is recommended that pre-school children be screened yearly.

Andona members professionally trained by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Blindness will act as volunteer screeners. They will show the children how to play the "E" game. The "E" will look like a topsy-turvy table to the child, who will have fun telling which way the "legs" are pointing, thus permitting him to be checked even though he cannot read.

For the actual screening, the child performs alone; however, to enable the youngsters to learn the game and overcome any possible shyness, the pre-schoolers play it in a group first. The children sit in a semicircle before a volunteer who displays the "E" symbol, and they move their arms up, down, right, or left to correspond with the rotation of the "E" by the screener.

Mrs. David Barrett is directing the screening sessions. She is being assisted by Mrs. James Garrett and Mrs. Frank Dyer.

Easter

Sunday marks a most sacred event in the Christian calendar.

As the sounds of "Alleluia," ring out throughout the world, the moment marks the remembrance of Christ's rising following his crucifixion on Good Friday to redeem mankind.

He came for a brief time to wash the sins of man from the earth.

His sacrifice was to provide a world of love and unity.

Today, however, we live in a far different world than that for which he sacrificed.

Nations are torn apart.

At home, there is disunity, controversy and bloodshed. Sunday, of course, will bring about briefly, the remembrance of the resurrection and reflection on its meaning.

But, unfortunately, it will last all too briefly.

There will be a return to the problems that beset mankind, most of his own doing.

The day would take on significance, if that remembrance were to be carried out year 'round.

Easter Sunday would be a good day to resolve to strive toward a peaceful world, a unified nation, and the expression of brotherly love toward all.

Then, His sacrifice will have a true meaning as we rejoice in the celebration of His resurrection.

At Last

Andover's town meeting, regular and special, is finally over.

After six sessions, probably the longest in the history of the town, the voters have had their say, and the town's business can progress normally once again.

Out of the lengthy debates and sessions, possibly a lesson can be learned.

Town meeting, as it is now operated, is a cumbersome, time consuming method of operation of the town's business.

The appointment of a committee to study the possibility of a representative type town meeting may provide some answers to the problem.

Indeed, Andover voters were in an economic frame of mood this year as could be anticipated.

The result was a reduction in the forecast increase in the tax rate, from $4 to a maximum of $2.

Scapegoat of the town meeting this year was the school department, an unusual turn of events for this town.

As mentioned previously, the town has been good to the schools over the years, and, no doubt, will be again. This year, however, there was an indication that the residents had a desire to catch their breath, so to speak, or possibly await refurbishing of the economy.

Rejection of the school issues can be looked upon as asking the administration to re-examine priorities. Also, to look at the programs, class sizes, etc., and come up with some sound educational procedures within the existing spaces allotted.

If time, is indeed a healer, then this year's town meeting may have accomplished something.

There must also be some time to evaluate the programs being carried out in the school system.

Time is also provided to determine if, in effect the need for additional space is at the elementary or secondary level.

If answers can be forthcoming to these questions in the months ahead, then the lengthy session will have accomplished something.

We feel the school department is well aware of the feelings of the townspeople and will act accordingly.

Police

We would hope that negotiations between the police department and the town can come to a successful conclusion and soon.

It is regrettable that the department members felt compelled to publicly display their feelings before the townspeople attending town meeting Monday night.

As is the case in all such negotiations, there are two sides to every story.

We would hope that both sides can get together, "bend" a little so to speak and come up with an equitable agreement.

Andover has had a good police department over the years and we would like to see it continue to serve the townspeople in the highest manner of public safety procedures.

No doubt the current differences between the members of the department and the town, can be resolved without further difficulties.

What Our Readers Say

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

We are a concerned group of students who wish to raise a few questions which we feel have not been settled in the Andover High School. Our high school is supposed to be a place in which we are to be educated and treated like young adults. We want to be respected, but we also expect to have rules which we are to follow. We ask why we are given rules that are not enforced. We also wonder why the administration caters to the people who break the rules which they set up? We realize that our school is not perfect and that we can't expect perfection.

When ex-school committee-woman Mrs. Virginia Cole came out with a statement like "I would like to remind people that the current generation of youth did not come from schools where self-motivation and self-discipline had been coveted and worked toward, but from the 'old' system." We do not think that she is entirely accurate. Those schools which are so open are having the same problems we are having along with more complex ones. Some schools which have adopted the open atmosphere have had to abandon that method of school life because they had lost control.

Mrs. Cole also says that rules made for the sake of rules have produced frustration in the young. This has some merit, but we don't think this is completely true either. What would society do if there were no laws or if there were, the police would not enforce them? Society could not survive. If we don't have some rules at the high school we will have complete and utter chaos, a state we are fast approaching. The reason might be that we had complete freedom and now the administration says it is going to enforce the present rules. We can't believe that now, after three-quarters of the year has gone by, they are going to start a get tough policy. At the end of last year the administration said that they were adopting a new policy for this year. When September came, school opened in a free-for-all and anything-goes fashion.

In the school itself there is a division between the teachers, which makes the atmosphere around the school uncomfortable.

Some of the teachers will admit it. Some teachers will enforce the administration's rules, others enforce their own, and still others do not enforce anything. We do not know whose problem this is, but it certainly is not the students' fault. Is the sky really falling this time?

We go to school to learn and to be educated for our future. Our concern is that this problem at the high school will most likely get worse before it gets better. Who is to blame for this? The School Committee? The principal? The students? The people of the town?

The last straw was this week when the administration called for a meeting with the students. Walking in Monday we thought we would be issued some new rules. To our surprise they gave the students the right to roam the halls. They then said that they were giving the problem of class cutting to the teachers, now this was really funny for if the administration can not enforce their own rules on cutting, how do they expect the teachers to do any better? Their job is to teach and not to enforce the rules established by the administration.

We are not saying that we want to be back in the days of corporal punishment, but we believe that there should be a happy medium. Please don't get us wrong, there are still some good things going on but we wish to inform the public of the situation.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:

Congratulations to those many interested people who are working toward a cleaner Andover and kudos to the Townsman for its excellent publicity about KAN.

Now that the snow has finally gone, if each interested citizen spent five minutes a day picking up trash, Andover would indeed be "one of the cleanest communities in America." Public involvement, plus more of your effective publicity can help this goal be reached.

Public works department workers have been cleaning up the parks around town this past week.

Notable is the efforts at the park in front of Memorial Auditorium, where the surface has been completely raked and spruced up.

The debris was raked to the curb where the street sweeper completed the job.

Rick Harrison who covers sporting events for the TOWNSMAN, is in the envious position of also covering hockey for a Lowell newspaper.

Beginning Wednesday night he began coverage of the Bruins' quest for a second straight Stanley Cup.

Following the Boston - Montreal game at the Foston Garden Wednesday night, Rick left with the Bruins for weekend games in Montreal.

Wednesday's pestiferous snow storm, while causing problems underfoot and on roadways, did create some attractive scenery.

The wet, heavy snow clung to branches and utility wires creating a winter setting for April.

State DPW Commissioner Edward J. Ribbs has announced that the Department has started a state-wide highway sweeping operation and urges motorists to be on the alert for the slow-moving vehicles in the next several weeks. Ribbs said the sweepers will give special attention to areas where sand used in snow and ice control during the winter months accumulated, especially at interchanges of controlled access routes.

Ribbs cautioned motorists to be particularly watchful at interchanges where ramps could reduce the driver's maneuverability around the sweepers.

The program will be completed by June 1.

The Red Sox got off to an auspicious start.

In its opening day 3-1 win over the Yankees, the Sox seemed to be a different team, what with some fancy base running, a full nine innings from starter Ray Culp and all around heads up play.

Let's hope it continues and the club can make a good run at the pennant.

Andover area families are needed to entertain English-speaking European teachers in their homes for one or two weeks this summer, it was announced today by The American Host Program.

Arrangements for participating as a host family can be made through: Tom Murphy, The American Host Program, Hotel New Yorker, Suite 1510, New York, New York, 10001.

Andover Men Head Chamber

Andover men have been chosen for the top offices in the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce for the second straight year.

William F. Lucey, Jr., was elected president of the organization at the Chamber's annual business meeting on Monday.

Theodore L. Russem was elected senior vice president; William E. Moriarty, treasurer and Dr. Nina E. Scarito, of Methuen, secretary-clerk.

Mr. Lucey succeeds Douglas N. Howe, also of Andover as president of the organization.

Lucey is business manager of the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune and has served as senior vice president and secretary-clerk of the Lawrence Chamber. He is a graduate of Central Catholic High School and the College of the Holy Cross. He served as Lieutenant (J.G.) in the Navy for two years in the Pacific Theatre. Lucey is a director of the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune Publishing Company and clerk of the Greater Lawrence Community Antenna, Inc. He is president of the Bon Secours Men's Guild and a trustee of the Essex Broadway Savings Bank. He is the chairman of the budget committee of the United Fund. Lucey resides at 6 Applecrest Road in Andover with his wife, the former Anne LeFebvre. They have four children.

Theodore L. Russem replaces William F. Lucey, Jr. as senior vice president of the Chamber. Russem has served as chairman of the Retail Board and as vice president of the Business Development Division of the Chamber. Russem, a graduate of Boston University, served in the U.S. Navy. He is treasurer of Russem's, Inc., a director of the Bon Secours Men's Guild and the Pelham Bank and Trust Company. He is president of the Greater Lawrence Mental Health Agency and past president of Temple Emanuel. He is corporator of the Lawrence Savings Bank. Russem lives in Andover with his wife, Florence, and their three children.

William E. Moriarty was elected to serve a second year as treasurer of the Chamber. He is a graduate of Boston College and entered the banking industry as a bank examiner. He is presently the president of the Lawrence Cooperative Bank. Moriarty is a past president of the Lawrence Jaycee's and a former chairman of the Downtown Lawrence Retail Task Force. He is a past president of the Greater Lawrence Kiwanis Club and a director of the Bon Secours Men's Guild. Moriarty is the president of the Massachusetts Cooperative Bank Club and a past director of the Massachusetts Cooperative Bank League. He is currently a director of the Cooperative Central Bank of Massachusetts and Treasurer of Realty, Inc. Moriarty lives in Andover with his wife, Terese, and their seven children.

Dr. Nina E. Scarito replaces James F. Dolan as secretary-clerk. Dolan retires after serving as a director of the Chamber for six years. Dr. Scarito is a graduate of Radcliffe College and the Medical College of Pennsylvania. She did post graduate training at Williamsport Hospital, Williamsport, Pa. and Boston Lying-in Hospital and Free Hospital for Women. Dr. Scarito is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Dr. Scarito is a director of the Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce, United Fund of the Merrimack Valley, Greater Lawrence Guidance Center, Greater Lawrence Y.W.C.A., the International Institute, Red Cross, Girl Scouts, United Cerebral Palsy Association, the Community Ambassador Program, GLEAM, and ten and sections added since, the manager said.

He noted that it has cost in the vicinity of $2,600 in negotiation procedures to date, over $1,000 more than other bargaining sessions with other town employees.

He reiterated that he was ready to meet for meaningful negotiation stating unless they are willing to move bargaining sessions would be a waste of time.

Austin feels that since this is the first contract between the police and the town, it is important to lay a proper foundation.

Paramount in his thoughts is the maintaining of the authority of the chief of the department.

"I'm concerned that this authority be retained and the prerogatives of management be preserved," Austin said, noting that it must be determined who is going to run the police department, the chief or the officers.

Money is apparently not a major factor in the negotiations.

Lloyd Felbin, president of the Police Betterment Association, stated that as late as Monday afternoon, the police would not have picketed if the manager had made concessions on certain points in the contract.

The major points are retention of the 40-hour week, days off for holiday duty, equal distribution of overtime and a seniority provision in the contract.

It has been suggested by Austin that fact finding be initiated.

Special Registration For Teens

The Board of Registrars of Voters are scheduling special sessions to provide an opportunity for young people to register to vote.

The decision is in keeping with a state-wide drive to get young people 18 and over to register.

Town Clerk Elden R. Salter stated that the board has decided to hold a session this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the town hall.

Voting rights were granted to 18-year-olds last November in the state election. Those over 18 may participate in municipal elections and town meetings, while the 18-year-olds are limited to participation in the Presidential elections.

The town clerk said that Saturday opening of his office would also allow those wishing to obtain dog licenses to do so at that time, noting that a rabies clinic is being held at the East Junior High school during the same period.

In order to encourage more registration by the young people, additional Saturday sessions will be announced at a later date, Salter said.

New System Installed At IRS

A new system transcribed information returns at speed of a second direct without the use of cards has been installed at the Internal Revenue in Andover, it has been announced by Director Frank...

Known as the Data Processing System, it is so called because it can "talk" back to the transcriber (formerly the operator) if input is incorrect or if electronic memory is full.

Although the computer will challenge the operator, it will be said by a computer when repeating the same information compels the computer to correct it. As the transcribers say their last word, the IRS says their last word.

The modern method of transcribing data into the Data Processing system will allow the Service process as many as 100 returns a day to its Martinsburg, W. Va. season now the Center 130,000 a day.

Its starting point is a terminal which has a screen similar to one on a machine. A video screen to an 18 inch TV directly in front of the transcriber.

The transcriber enters the information she inputs by merely touching the screen. If she makes a mistake, she simply erases it with a key and inputs the correct information.

During the average session, the transcriber may have 10 "conversations" with the computer.

For instance, when she enters a return from lunch and has last entry she merely touches the computer by code "1" and the computer input of a second tells her what her last input was.

The transcriber enters the information efficiently with the screen. She skips a number while inputting a block (100 to a block) of the flash a signal on the screen advising her.

Once the information is input to the computer, it is stored on a magnetic disc, bank, until another system calls for it. It is similar to a phonograph record. The magnetic disc has 10 writing surfaces, magnetic spots and 10 million characters.

The tax data goes through a verification process. Different transcribers enter the information who originally entered the documents in a block key verified, but the accurate all sections do not have to be verified.

The verifier can be the computer also, have the last word. The computer flashes the signal it is questioning the verifier can override the computer by merely sending a signal. The computer temporarily the verifier.

IRS points out that the system will not delay the administration of tax. The computer is an electronic system for menial tasks done by clerks.

New System Installed At IRS

A new system that processes transcribed information from tax returns at speeds of a millionth of a second directly to the computer without the use of keypunched cards has been installed at the Internal Revenue Service Center in Andover, it has been announced by Director Frank Browitt.

Known as the Direct Data Entry System, it is so sophisticated it can "talk" back to a data transcriber (formerly a keypunch operator) if input is contrary to its electronic memory.

Although the computer can challenge the operator, the final word will be said by a verifier who when repeating her information compels the computer to accept it as correct. As 99 percent of the transcribers will be women IRS says their lady operators will have the last word.

The modern method of transcribing data into its Automatic Data Processing system will save the government thousands of dollars each year and allow IRS to give better service to its 17 million taxpayers in New England and New York who make up the region served by the Service Center in Andover.

At its peak season, the DDES will allow the Service Center to process as many as 200,000 returns a day to its master file in Martinsburg, W. Va. At peak season now the Center processes 130,000 a day.

Its starting point is a key station terminal which has a keyboard similar to one on a keypunch machine. A video screen, similar to an 18 inch TV screen, sits directly in front of the transcriber.

The transcriber may read what she inputs by merely looking at the screen. If she makes an error she simply erases it with the touch of a key and inputs correct information.

During the average workday the transcriber may have several "conversations" with the computer.

For instance, when she returns from lunch and has forgotten her last entry she merely asks the computer by code "where was I?" and the computer in a millionth of a second tells her precisely what her last input was.

The transcriber has to work efficiently with the computer. If she skips a numerical sequence while inputting a block of returns (100 to a block) the computer will flash a signal on the video screen advising her.

Once the information has been input to the computer it remains on a magnetic disc, or memory bank, until another part of the system calls for it. The disc, similar to a phonograph record, has 10 writing surfaces with 10 magnetic spots and can hold 7.6 million characters.

The tax data goes through a verification process done by a different transcriber than the one who originally entered it. All documents in a block of 100 are key verified, but the system is so accurate all sections of the return do not have to be verified.

The verifier can be checked by the computer also, but she will have the last word. When the computer flashes the verifier a signal it is questioning her input the verifier can overrule the computer by merely sending it a second time. The computer will accept temporarily the word of the verifier.

IRS points out that the new system will not dehumanize the administration of taxes. The computer is an electronic tool used for menial tasks doing what we want it to do, Director Browitt points out.

The 478 key station terminals are connected to the central processing units in groups of 32 terminals via a Data Line Controller located with the key station terminals and a Communications Coupler located with the central processing equipment.

The new system is housed in a 39,000 square foot wing erected specifically for it.

The wing is a well-lighted colorful room with walls painted cream, coral and yellow. The transcribers sit at white topped sky-blue desks which are set row upon row. They have chairs with tangerine-colored backs and seats and the supervisors sit in armed desk chairs with yellow backs and seats. The floor is white tile. Just off the room is a snack bar.

The system will resolve a problem long held by IRS concerning the high cost of keypunching, verifying, and the subsequent controlling and handling of approximately 68 million cards a year. In its seven service centers IRS uses 400 million cards a year.

After considerable study and design work, the IRS asked computer manufacturers to advise them whether technology was advanced enough to meet its special requirements. This was done via the normal method of a bid and proposal to all manufacturers.

The system was designed and developed by General Electric Co. which merged its computer activities with Honeywell several months ago. The Honeywell company installed the Andover system.

The central processing gear is made up of two General Electric 4020 process automated computers with 24,576 words of magnetic core memory. For storage back-up each computer has a magnetic drum with a 262,144 word capacity and three magnetic disc units each of which is capable of storing 7,680,000 six bit characters of data.

To this central processing hardware have been attached four magnetic tape drives, two console typewriters and key station terminal units.

Before the system is formally accepted it must function at better than 95 percent of "uptime" vs "downtime" for 20 days.

Rock Contata To Be Presented

Miss Priscilla Ward Smith was married here Sunday to Anthony Richard Sapienza in the Sylvia Pratt Kemper Memorial Chapel at Phillips Academy, by Rev. Frederic A. Pease, Jr.

Has Major Role In Production

Miss Marie Rice of 6 Poplar Terrace, has a major role in The Garrett Players production of "Cactus Flower," to be performed at Turn Hall, 44 Park St., Lawrence, on April 16, 17, 18 and 24.

"Cactus Flower" is a fast-paced comedy about a free-swinging bachelor dentist; his slightly wacky but good-hearted Greenwich Village girlfriend; and his super-efficient office nurse who blossoms like a cactus flower when she steps out of her starched uniform.

On April 16, 17 and 18, Miss Rice will play the role of the girlfriend, Toni Simmons. On April 24, the role will be played by Miss Lucy Coco of Methuen.

Miss Rice has studied drama at Emerson College, and has had acting experience with the Stage I Drama Workshop in Boston. A native of Montreal, Canada, she moved to Andover with her family a few years ago, and graduated from Andover High school. In Montreal she had four years' experience in children's theatre . . . and this year, the Garrett Players' Theatre Workshop for Children has been under her direction.

Tickets for "Cactus Flower" are on sale at Tune Town, 318 Essex St., Lawrence . . . or may be purchased before each performance at Turn Hall. Tickets are $2 for adults, $1.50 for children, and special group discounts are available to parties of 20 or more. Call 475-0876 or 688-2015 for reservations and further information.

Gardeners Meet

Members of the Spade and Trowel Garden Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 13 at Sheraton Rolling Green parking area for an out-of-town meeting, to be held at Lexington Gardens.

The bride, known as Sally, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles A. Smith of Darien, Conn. Mr. Smith is Arts Editor of the Associated Press in New York.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo A. Sapienza of Andover. His father is vice president of Grieco Brothers, manufacturers of Southwick Clothing for men in Lawrence.

The bride wore a Victorian style gown, of her own design, made of imported embroidered organdy, with a two-tiered skirt and full bishop sleeves. The waist was banded with a pale pink satin sash. On the high collar she wore a small gold pin that her maternal grandmother had worn at her wedding in 1897. White flowers and pink satin ribbons adorned her hair.

She carried an old fashioned nosegay of lilies of the valley, surrounding pink rosebuds.

Miss Joanne Regina Sapienza, the bridegroom's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a pale pink cotton Mexican dress, with a mauve choker, mauve ribbons and flowers in her hair. Her bouquet was of heather and gypsophila.

Mrs. Sapienza is a 1965 graduate of Darien High School, a 1969 graduate of the Women's College of the University of Pennsylvania, and did graduate work at Radcliffe College. She is currently assistant to the president of the Schenkman Publishing Co., Cambridge.

Mr. Sapienza is a graduate of Phillips Academy, of Lawrenceville in New Jersey, and of the University of Pennsylvania in 1959. He served as a VISTA volunteer in Pittsburgh, Pa., before assuming his present post as program director for East End House of the Alliance of Cambridge Settlement Houses. He plans to enter law school next fall.

Frank Charles Sapienza, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Judson Brooks Brown was the usher.

International Dance Held

Last Friday night almost 400 students enjoyed the music of Brad Koffman's band and the smorgasbord dessert prepared by members of the French, Latin, and Spanish clubs of East Junior High.

Both the gymnasium and cafeteria were decorated with flags representing all those countries whose people speak a Romance language. Huge paper flowers and streamers transformed the walls and hid the stacks of wooden chairs awaiting Monday's town meeting.

Corsages of fresh flowers were sold from gaily decorated push carts, while strobe lights made in the art room cast strange shadows on the new gymnasium floor installed this year.

Arrangements for the dance were made by the foreign language department faculty and student presidents of the three clubs as follows: John Roulston for the Latin Club, Marcelle Colaneri of the French Club, and Emma Cormier of the Spanish Club.

Drama Group Meets Wednesday

The Drama Department of the November Club will hold their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. W. G. Hensel, 11 Arcadia Road at 2 p.m., April 14.

Tea hostess for the day is Mrs. Thomas Price, assisted by Mrs. Norman Farracough, Mrs. Jeddiah Garrison and Mrs. John Word.

Following election of officers for the coming year, Mrs. Joseph Smethurst will present a skit.

Stroke A Leading Death Cause

Some call it stroke; others say apoplexy or cerebrovascular accident. Whatever name you choose, it causes one of every nine deaths in the U.S., taking approximately 200,000 lives each year. Stroke is the third leading cause of death in the U.S., outranked only by heart attacks (570,000 deaths annually) and cancer (about 310,000).

However, the positive side of the stroke ledger grows increasingly encouraging. Your Northeast Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association points out that the age-corrected death rate from stroke declined by 21 percent for men and women, from 1950-67.

There is reason for continued optimism. As one scientist noted, in each year of the past decade research has uncovered and developed major aids to the treatment and prevention of stroke.

What are the causes of stroke? As in heart attack, the underlying process which sets the stage for a stroke is atherosclerosis, the condition in which arteries are clogged or narrowed by fatty deposits. In heart attack, the clogging blocks the flow of the blood to a part of the heart muscle. In stroke, the artery clogging impedes blood flow to the brain.

An important consideration in stroke is hypertension, high blood pressure. Elevated levels raise the risk of stroke in two ways. First, an abnormally high pressure accelerates the progression of atherosclerosis. Secondly, the increased pressure may put an added strain on an already damaged blood vessel in the brain, causing it to "blow," and produce so-called hemorrhagic stroke. Your doctor can help you lower your blood pressure, if it is too high.

The brain is only two percent of the body weight, but it receives about 15 percent of the heart's total output of blood. When a part of the brain is deprived of oxygen-laden blood, its nerve cells cannot function. Depending on which cells are knocked out, we may not be able to remember a telephone number or tie our shoes -- because the brain calls the signals that make our minds and bodies work.

Like heart attacks, not all strokes are fatal. Proof: An estimated 1,200,000 Americans now living have survived a stroke -- and many are back at work.

Strokes vary widely in pattern and severity. Some strokes are so mild, they literally go unnoticed. Others, more severe, and affecting extensive areas of the brain, can cause paralysis.

While prevention of stroke is the ideal goal, there is a good deal the doctor can do for the patient who has had a stroke. Soon -- almost immediately -- after the stroke, the doctor may suggest passive exercise and massage to prevent or minimize muscle wasting. In this, the patient's family can be extremely helpful. Indeed, the family's wholehearted cooperation with the doctor plays a vital role in the patient's recovery. When rehabilitation is begun promptly and carried out faithfully, even severely paralyzed patients can make remarkable progress in regaining functions impaired by a stroke.

Doctor and family may call on other resources in the community to help in the patient's rehabilitation.

With recent research developments, stroke is no longer hopeless. And we can expect that continued research will uncover more ways to help even larger numbers of stroke patients, both present and future.

For further information on stroke, write to the Northeast Chapter, Massachusetts Heart Association, located at 79 North Main St., Andover for the informative pamphlet, "Seven Hopeful Facts About Stroke."

Conn. Doctor Leads Drive At College

Dr. William F. McKeon of Norwich, Conn. has been named Chairman of the 1971 Loyalty Fund Drive for the Merrimack College Alumni Association, it was announced today by Merrimack College President, Rev. John R. Aherne, O.S.A.

The Alumni Fund is designed to engender financial support from Merrimack College alumni to support the annual operating budget of the college. "In these precarious times for colleges and universities, it is imperative to have alumni leadership of the caliber Dr. McKeon brings to Merrimack College," Fr. Aherne continued. "At Merrimack, we seek to alleviate the rising trend of higher tuition costs through our Alumni Loyalty Fund."

By June 30, Dr. McKeon plans to attain a goal of $50,000 and 55 percent alumni participation in the 1971 Loyalty Fund. "We were gratified that over 1650 alumni in our 4,000 membership contributed $33,000 in our 1970 Loyalty Fund Drive. Because of our 41 percent alumni participation, Merrimack also received $6,000 from the New England Colleges Fund for maintaining their 30 percent requirement for alumni participation. This year because of the increased costs in higher education among private colleges, we are seeking greater alumni participation to demonstrate our support in the viability of a private college like Merrimack," stated Dr. McKeon.

A 1955 graduate of Merrimack College and a member of the Alumni Association Board of Governors since 1969, Dr. McKeon is currently engaged in the practice of Urology in Norwich, Conn.

New Question On Ice Age

Carbon dating of materials excavated in the Peruvian mountains by a Phillips Academy archaeological team has raised new questions about the Ice Age.

The dating indicates that while glaciation was receding from the Ayacucho Basin southeast of Lima about 20,000 years ago, a new glacier was advancing at the time in North America.

The findings were made by Dr. Richard S. MacNeish, chairman of the department of archaeology at Phillips Academy, who is directing the continuing excavations. He said they appeared to dispute the popular theory that changes in solar activity caused uniform glaciation around the world.

"This is a problem for geologists, rather than archaeologists," said Dr. MacNeish. But, he went on, "it focusses new attention on the old theory that the earth wobbles on its axis from time to time, changing the relative positions of the poles to the sun for extended periods."

Dr. MacNeish reached his observations as the result of Carbon 14 dating on animal bones and other artifacts unearthed last year in caves below the mountain tops. Carbon dating is a system of using radio active isotopes to determine the exact age of ancient material.

So far, carbon dating has verified Dr. MacNeish's estimates of the ages of two of five strata in the caves. The oldest layer was found to be 19,600 years old, a time when glacial conditions existed. The youngest was found to be 14,200 years old, when there was evidence of a warmer period.

Two other layers, still to be dated, have been estimated at 17,000 and 16,000 years, respectively. A fifth layer has yet to be excavated, but early indications are that it is even older than the others.

The National Science Foundation has supported the project through grants in aid to the R. S. Peabody Foundation, which has its headquarters on the Andover campus.

The main thrust has been a search for clues to the origins of cultivated plants, or agriculture, and their relationship to the development of village life and civilization in New World centers.

The carbon dating was done by Drs. Rainer Berger and Reiner Protsch of the Institute of Geophysics and Planetary Physics at the University of California at Los Angeles, using new space techniques that have been applied to moon rock samples.

In terms of the importance of the carbon dating to the cave artifacts, according to Dr. MacNeish, it indicates that Man was migrating south across the Bering Strait from Asia as early as 50,000 years ago. Similar artifacts unearthed in North America so far have been estimated at several thousand years later.

"This shows that the northern artifacts need to be re-examined and carbon dated," said Dr. MacNeish, "because these early men certainly had to cross North America on their way to Peru and what we know as Latin America."

The Peruvian diggings, he went on, have uncovered at least three cultural periods. The earliest enjoyed chopping and scraping tools made of animal bones, the next had unifacial tools of flint flakes and the third specialized tools, such as spear points.

Andover's annual Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored by the Recreation Department, is scheduled for 2 p.m. on Saturday, April 10 at Recreation Park.

Thousands of candy eggs will be hidden in various parts of Recreation Park and the youngsters will be divided into three groups, by age so that all will have an equal chance. Pre-school and kindergarten will visit the Easter Bunny, ages six through eight will hunt on the Ball Field and age nine and over will hunt in the picnic area across from the Lodge.

Volunteer Girl Scout and Boy Scout troops will be on hand to assist the Recreation Department.

Bloodmobile Conducted By Candlelight

The Red Cross Bloodmobile visit to St. Robert Bellarmine parish was not hampered by a general power failure in the area Wednesday afternoon.

Those in charge of the Floodmobile visit, conducted the procedures by candlelight.

Several power failures were reported Wednesday, according to the Massachusetts Electric Co., due to the sneak snowstorm.

The heavy snow snapped wires in many locations keeping crewmen busy throughout the day repairing lines and restoring power.

Bluebirds Need Homes

A scientist at Cornell University fed 8108 punch cards into a computer and found the deck stacked against the bluebird in New England.

A possible answer to the problem may lie in feeding a few pine planks into a basement band or circular saw and turning them into bluebird houses.

The Cornell statistical study does not account for the fact that bluebirds once were so common in New England that they were sold by the barrel in the Faneuil Hall meat market. Nor does it explain H. D. Minot's statement in 1876 that bluebirds "are very common and well known throughout southern New England." What-ever accounted for that commonness no longer prevails.

The study does indicate, however, what now occurs among bluebirds. It also provides a statistical picture which suggests the odds against New England ever becoming the bluebird capital of North America are at least 100-to-1.

One might have determined without a computer that bluebirds are most numerous in Kentucky and Tennessee. Binoculars alone could have made that determination, since bluebirds still remain a relatively common bird in that region.

What the computer made clear was that the average pair of bluebirds in the Kentucky - Tennessee district have an average clutch of 5.04 eggs. And that the average breeding season in that area extends through 102 days.

In New England, the average bluebird clutch contains 4.57 eggs. And the breeding season is limited to 80 days. The only regions doing more poorly in the bluebird range are Wisconsin where the average clutch is 4.47 eggs and the breeding season 71 days, and Ontario where a 4.35-egg clutch coincides with a 77-day season.

The length of the breeding season has significance because in optimum regions the bluebird pair may hatch three broods, compared to the probable two broods in New England.

regions the bluebird pair may hatch three broods, compared to the probable two broods in New England.

Obviously if the bluebird has factors operating against the species in a region in which it can live -- New England, for instance -- anything that gives the bird a better break means an increased population. One of the limiting factors that operates against bluebirds is the scarcity of nesting holes -- and the fact that the house sparrow or starling tends to beat the bluebird to the few that are available.

Anyone with a saw, a pine or spruce one-by-six-inch board, four feet long and minimum skill with hammer and nails can help tip the balance toward the bluebird's favor. You slice the board into chunks of wood, bang the lot together and wind up with a bluebird nesting box. Even if the slips of your yardstick cause the box to emerge as an architectural monstrosity, bluebirds often will move in.

If you want free detailed information which includes a precise pattern for sawing the board without waste, send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Bluebirds, Massachusetts Audubon Society, South Great Road, Lincoln, Mass. 01773.

Perpetual Pollution Particles

"What goes up must come down" is an axiom of folk wisdom, but two Boston scientists have discovered that when it comes to air pollution, some of what goes up stays up.

Most of the dirt particles that pollute our air do come down, of course, as any city housewife knows, but it seems that there is a certain size particle which just stays suspended indefinitely in the air. It's too small to fall. The particle size ranges upwards and downwards from a millionth of a meter: from 0.2 to 2.0 microns in diameter.

And scientists William A. Curby and Howard E. Lind, of the Sias Laboratories of the Lahey Clinic, are worried about what these pollution particles may do to our weather and to public health.

Curby and Lind first discovered these particles in the air in and near New York City in 1967.

"The fact that city air contains such a large number of sub-micron particles excited us because for the most part particles of this size do not fall out of the air fluid in which they are held. They behave as a colloid. This meant we had, for the first time, an index of the loading factor of atmosphere," they stated in a paper presented to the recent American Public Health Association meeting in Houston, Texas.

Starting in June of last year, Curby and Lind set up an air sampling station outside their laboratory on Corey Hill in Brookline. They found that the air over Boston did indeed have a permanent load of tiny pollution particles. The load was higher during times of obvious pollution and atmospheric inversion, but it was always there, whether the air appeared polluted or not to the untrained eye. And the load appeared to be increasing over a period of time.

What is the meaning of this discovery?

First of all, it means the air is apparently permanently polluted over the cities; the pollution comes, but it doesn't go.

"Changes in the particle load, such as those we have observed, point strongly to the existence of unique atmospheric phenomena. The sub-micron particles over Boston (and probably other Atlantic seaboard cities) are beginning to act not as single particles, but as a controlled part of the large mass. Simply stated, the particles are beginning to form particle "clouds" which are moved by winds as units. Due to their properties the particles cannot as easily be separated and diluted by clean air."

Second, Curby and Lind predict that these large masses of pollution particles may play an increasing part in changing our weather. The overall effect could mean important changes in United

Arithmetic Teaching To Be Discussed

A Boston University faculty member, Mrs. Ruth Jacobson, who is a specialist in teaching arithmetic to children having learning disabilities, will be the featured speaker at the regular 8 p.m. meeting of the Merrimack Valley Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, Monday, April 12, at the Ballardvale United Church, corner of Hall Ave. and Clark Road, Ballardvale. Mrs. Jacobson's presentation will be a workshop in arithmetic, involving: 1. Cuisenaire rods, 2. Problem solving, 3. Fractions, 4. Money, 5. Number bases. The participants will be actively involved with the materials.

Mrs. Jacobson, who has been involved in the development of a uniquely different method, which she calls the "spiral approach", last month addressed the National convention of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities on this subject at their Chicago meeting. She is on the Advisory Board of Massachusetts Child, Inc., the affiliate of the National ACLD in Massachusetts, and is now serving as legislative Chairman for Mass.

TOWN MEETING

night was a proposed bylaw banning non-returnable bottles in town.

The $2,300,000 addition to the Doherty school was disapproved by a vote of 484 to 347, a two-thirds vote was needed for the project.

The request for $70,000 for an addition to the high school was defeated 431 to 484.

On the Doherty addition, Dr. Frank Griggs of the school committee and Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of schools debated the need for the additional classrooms and presented graphs to make their points.

Dr. Griggs contended that the elementary school population would decline over the next few years, commenting again on the decline in employment.

Dr. Seifert argued that the school enrollment would continue to rise and presented graphs indicating a continued growth over the past several years.

John S. Sullivan, former school committeeman and a member of the State Board of Education, asked the voters to approve the project, and stated that dropping the project would be costly to the town.

Harold T. King, chairman of the planning board which had approved the project, noted that the town had rejected the new high school when originally presented. The delay cost the town considerably he said along with providing a school two-thirds its originally proposed size.

He felt that a delay in providing the additional classroom space would prove costly to the town.

Francis Byrne of the Finance Committee filed a minority report on the project which he described as being too costly. Three members of the FinCom had disapproved the expenditure.

Byrne noted the square foot cost of Andover municipal construction compared to other communities was extremely high.

As debate continued after the hour of midnight, with additional speakers scheduled, Selectman Roger W. Collins was applauded when he commented, "I think everyone has made up their minds."

The vote was taken shortly after and the meeting adjourned.

On the high school addition issue, the FinCom had disapproved the article, Chairman Greenberg stating he felt more judicious use of space at the present school would avoid an addition at this time.

Dr. Griggs also spoke against the funds, noting he felt it was premature to have planning funds at this time. He said a study should be made of the seating capacity of the school, the population capacity, the open campus and the year 'round school.

Also debated at length was the issue of non-returnable bottles.

Arguing against the proposal were David Coffman, president of the Methuen Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., and James Holihan, 60 Bartlett St., a former owner of Holihan's Brewery in Lawrence.

Both speakers felt the bylaw was discriminatory.

It was mentioned that recycling centers would soon be opening in the area.

Thomas Cone asked for approval of the article as an indication of the feeling of the townspeople. This, he said, would give direction to legislators who are faced with articles before them urging similar laws throughout the Commonwealth.

The vote on the article was 441 to 533.

In other action Monday night, a committee is to be appointed to study representative town meeting, with a report due at the October town meeting. The committee was proposed by Gerald Silverman, who had proposed adoption of the system in the warrant but withdrew the article since it must be acted upon on the ballot.

On motion of Karl Haartz, former Selectman William Stewart was thanked for his years of service to the town. Also shown appreciation was Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien.

EASTER

and other Holy Week services are contained in this week's edition of the TOWNSMAN.

The significantly religious event will also be marked by traditional family get-togethers, following church services on Sunday.

It will also mark the traditional fashion parade, despite the snow of Wednesday.

The latest in styles for both men and women will be on display. Downtown stores have been busy preparing the traditional Easter wardrobes for families.

There will also be floral displays, with the traditional Easter lily most popular, along with tulips and arrangements.

In addition to new clothing, the children will be looking forward to a visit from the Easter bunny with his annual gifts of candy, baskets and Easter eggs.

The annual Easter egg hunt conducted by the Recreation department will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at Andover Recreation Park. Most downtown stores will be closed Good Friday from noon to 3 p.m., according to a vote of the Retail Task Force of the Andover Chamber of Commerce.

The Nation's trucking industry now buys about two million new trucks and trailers each year.
